1. Aim

- 1.1. This guide explains the cess principles and processes applicable to the hotel industry. Specifically, it highlights the cess treatment of the various forms of taxable transactions in common business arrangements undertaken by hotels.
- 1.2. This guide also explains how cess is assessed for the Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2025, under the Singapore Tourism (Cess Collection) (Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2025) Order 2025.

2. Background

- 2.1. The Singapore Tourism (Cess Collection) Act, or Cess Act, was enacted in 1972 to allow the collection of cess from tourist establishments for the promotion of tourism. When the Cess Act was first enacted, cess was a broad-based tax imposed on sales made and charges levied or collected by tourist hotels, food establishments and public houses.
- 2.2. The Cess Act was amended in 2008 to make cess more targeted by linking it to specific tourism events. These are strategic events that would enhance Singapore's global branding, while bringing economic benefits to the country. The amendment also changed the nature of cess from a consumption tax to a business tax on relevant tourist establishments.
- 2.3. The most recent amendments to the Cess Act which took effect September 2018 are part of the Government's continual efforts to update legislative frameworks to keep pace with business development and industry trends. The amendments clarify the scope of cess, update the scope of persons that may be liable to pay cess, and enhance existing administrative requirements.

- 4.1. The Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2025 has been specified in the Order as a tourism event. The taxable period will be from 2 October 2025 to 5 October 2025 (both dates inclusive).
- 4.2. Cess will be levied on all taxable transactions connected with the Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2025 and is payable by the operator of the tourism event establishment.

  - (b) 20% for the list of hotels specified in Part 2 of the Schedule of the Order; and

Please refer to Section 8 of this guide for more details on the submission of the Cess Returns Form and modes of payment.

5. Taxable Transactions

- 5.1. Gross receipts derived (i.e. gross receipts where consideration paid wholly in money)
  - The first category of taxable transactions relates to accommodation provided, or to be provided, and where payment is paid wholly in money. These include:
    - (a) Provision of a room but excluding services charged to the room such as F&B, telecommunication or laundry<sup>1</sup>;
    - (b) Provision of any early check-in and/or late check-out;
    - (c) Provision of any extra bed(s);
    - (d) Potential provision of a room that was subsequently cancelled before any occupation of the room; and

<sup>1</sup> In the event where only the package price is reflected on the guest bill without further breakdown into room and non-room components, the cess will be calculated based on the gross package price.

- (e) Potential provision of a room where the guest(s) subsequently did not show up.

The gross receipts derived from the above taxable transactions shall exclude service charge and goods and services tax.

5.2. Amount treated as gross receipts derived (i.e. gross receipts in other cases) - The second category of taxable transactions relates to accommodation provided, or to be provided, and where payment is not paid wholly in money. These include:

- (a) Provision of a room that is given complimentary or as a gift to guests for any purpose including for business development or cultivation purposes and media familiarisation trips;
- (b) Provision of a room that is fully redeemed by a guest under any member or loyalty programme (i.e. money's worth), even if the hotel receives monetary reimbursement (e.g. from the loyalty programme, hotel group or other parties) for such room redemptions. Please see Annex B for illustration;
- (c) Provision of a room where the room is paid for with a combination of money and money's worth (e.g. cash and members/loyalty programme points), even if the hotel receives monetary reimbursement (e.g. from the loyalty programme, hotel group or other parties) for such room redemptions;
- (d) Provision of a room as part of a contractual package, e.g. wedding or corporate package where the room is provided with the package (i.e. not charged separately);
- (e) Potential provision of a room that was subsequently cancelled before any occupation of the room, and with a cancellation charge where all of the money's worth or money and money's worth utilised to book the room were forfeited; and
- (f) Potential provision of a room where the guest(s) subsequently did not show up, and where all of the money's worth or money and money's worth utilised to book the room were forfeited.

6. Mechanics of cess

Cess is calculated based on a percentage<sup>2</sup> of the gross receipts derived or treated as derived from each taxable transaction.

Gross receipts derived

The gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction connected with the tourism event where consideration for the taxable transaction is paid wholly in money.

Cess is calculated based on the actual room rate / package price that was paid wholly in money without subtracting any costs or expenses (e.g. commission/ OTA booking charge).

<sup>2</sup> The applicable cess rate for hotels listed in Part 1, 2 and 3 of the Schedule of the Order is 30%, 20% and 15% respectively.

In the event where only the package price is reflected on the guest bill without further breakdown into room and non-room components<sup>3</sup>, the cess will be calculated based on the gross package price. Please see Annex A for illustration.

Amount treated as gross receipts derived

The amount treated as the gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction must be calculated in accordance with the formula  $[TGR/N]$ .

TGR is the total amount of gross receipts for all taxable transactions connected with the tourism event which are paid wholly in money.

N is the aggregate of the number of rooms paid for in money on each day of the taxable period that:

- (i) were used by guests of the hotel; and
- (ii) were no show rooms.

Please see Annex B for illustration.

In the event that the above prescribed formula cannot be applied to determine the value of the amount treated as the gross receipt derived from a taxable transaction, the amount treated as the gross receipts will instead be derived from taxable transactions over the period of the most recent equivalent event (e.g. the Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2024).

If no such amount can be derived from the above, the amount treated as the gross receipts will instead be derived from taxable transactions of another hotel that is comparable to and in the vicinity of the hotel.

7. Clarifications on common taxable transactions

7.1. Vouchers

Cash/Discount Vouchers

Where a cash/discount voucher is used by a guest to offset the purchase of one or more hotel rooms during the taxable period, the cess payable is based on the actual value of the room when it was booked. For example, where a guest booked a room at $300 and presented a $30 cash voucher or 10% discount voucher at the hotel to offset the room charge, the amount taxable for this room is $300 i.e. room rate before deduction of the value of the cash/discount voucher.

Vouchers for complimentary hotel room(s)

Where a voucher is used by a guest for one or more complimentary hotel rooms during the taxable period, the provision of such hotel rooms are taxable transactions and cess is payable. For such transactions, the gross receipts will be derived using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide.

<sup>3</sup> The hotel may use other sources of supporting documents such as system printed revenue distribution or the hotel's internal established agreements, provided the cess figures can be properly derived and audited.

7.2. Members/Loyalty/Rewards Points (i.e. Money's worth)

Where member/loyalty/rewards points or similar mechanism are fully/partially used by a guest under a member/loyalty programme (e.g. fully by member/loyalty points or member/loyalty points plus top-up of cash) for one or more hotel rooms, the provision of such hotel rooms are taxable transactions and cess is payable. The gross receipts will be derived using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide on "Amount treated as gross receipts derived". Even if the hotel received monetary reimbursement (e.g. from the loyalty programme, hotel group or other parties) for such room redemptions.

7.3. Contractual package

Where one or more hotel rooms are provided to a guest as part of a contractual package during the taxable period, e.g. wedding or corporate packages, the provision of such hotel rooms are taxable transactions and cess is payable. The gross receipts will be derived using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide. For example, a guest pays for a wedding banquet held in the hotel and receives a complimentary room for one night stay during the taxable period.

7.4. Rooms provided complimentary or as a gift to guests

Where one or more hotel rooms are provided complimentary or as a gift to a guest for any purpose including for business development or cultivation purposes and media familiarisation trips, the provision of such hotel rooms are taxable transactions and cess is payable. The gross receipts will be derived using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide. For example, the guest pays for 3 nights but is provided a hotel stay for 4 nights. The total gross receipts for this room will be based on the actual money payment for 3 nights and the derived gross receipts for 1 night using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide.

7.5. No-show and cancellation charges

If no-show or cancellation charges are imposed where the guest(s) fail to take up the room(s) even though they have made room reservations, these transactions are considered as taxable transactions.

Gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction

For those transactions where payment is made wholly in money for the no-show/cancelled room (regardless of whether it is the room charges or an admin/attrition fee), the actual gross receipts received or to be received by the hotel is taxable.

Amount treated as gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction

For those transactions where such rooms are booked using only money's worth (i.e. member/loyalty points) or a combination of money and money's worth (i.e. money and member/loyalty points), and where all the member/loyalty points or all the money and member/loyalty points are forfeited for no-show or cancellation of the room, the gross receipts will be derived using the prescribed formula as stated in section 6 of this guide.

- ii. Cess payment can also be made via PayNow with the following QR Code. Please quote the Cess Reference Number when you make the payment.

No receipt will be issued for cess payment. Do ensure that the payment reaches STB by 5 December 2025 to avoid penalty for late payment.

You are required to submit both completed Cess Returns Form (in excel format) and CFO signed Cess Returns Form (in pdf format) via FormSG platform.

8.2 Penalty for late payment of the cess

In the event that the cess payment is not made by 5 December 2025, a one-time penalty equivalent to 5% of the outstanding cess will be imposed.

If the cess is still unpaid by 4 February 2026, an additional penalty of 2% of the unpaid cess shall be payable for each complete month that the cess remains unpaid commencing from 6 December 2025. The total additional penalty shall not exceed 50% of the amount of cess outstanding. Please see Annex C for illustration.

9. Frequently Asked Questions

Q1. Do I need to register my hotel as a tourism event establishment?

There is no need for a hotel to register as a tourism event establishment. All tourism event establishments will be specified in the Order.

STB will also inform the hotels who are tourism event establishments in writing.

Q2. Will cess be imposed on rooms that have been sold during this period but have not yet been paid for? Will cess be imposed on pre-collected room revenues e.g. in the event of “no-shows”?

Yes to both. Cess is payable on all gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction and the amount treated as gross receipts derived from a taxable transaction during the taxable period i.e. 2 October to 5 October 2025 (both dates inclusive). These include, but are not limited to:

- a) Rooms that have not been paid for (e.g. on credit terms);
- b) Rooms where payment was pre-paid; and
- c) Post payment of cancellation and no-show charge

Thus, all gross receipts attributed to all taxable transaction during the taxable period must be reported and accounted for cess payment. Gross receipts include all adjustments of the gross receipts derived from the taxable transactions, regardless of when the adjustments are processed.

Q3. Will cess be imposed on revenue collected for early check-in and late check-out?

Cess is payable on all gross receipts derived from taxable transactions during the taxable period i.e. 2 October to 5 October 2025 (both dates inclusive), which include revenue collected for early check-in and late check-out during this period.

Q4. Will the cess payment be refunded to the hotel if the hotel decides to refund the full or partial cancellation charge to the guest after cess payment has been made? What is the validity period for refunds?

Yes, your hotel may be refunded on the basis of over-payment of cess upon submission of proper documentary evidence to the satisfaction of STB. The window period for any refund is up to one year after cess payment has been made i.e. if the bank transfer for cess payment is received on 5 December 2025, refund claim has to be made by 4 December 2025 for the Formula 1 Singapore Airlines Singapore Grand Prix 2025.

Q5. Why is there a need to provide information for dates outside the taxable period since the cess is not levied on the taxable transactions on these days?

Although cess is not levied on taxable transactions outside the taxable period, the information collected for a broader timeframe will facilitate verification and audit of the cess paid by the hotel.

Q6. What are the common errors that hotels should take note of?

- a) Rooms redeemed using membership or loyalty points are treated as “Amount treated as gross receipts derived” even if the hotel receives monetary reimbursement (e.g. from the loyalty programme, hotel group or other parties) for such room redemptions.
- b) Cancellation charges, rebates, room rate adjustments and/or no-show charges relating to taxable transactions during the taxable period were erroneously excluded in the Cess Returns Form as these were processed outside the taxable period.
- c) GST and/or service charge was erroneously included in gross receipts.
- d) Non-room revenue, such as breakfast and internet charges, were erroneously included in the gross receipts subject to cess.
- e) Errors due to omission or oversight in preparing submission/manual reconciliation.
- f) Inclusion of work-related staff use rooms under taxable transactions, even though such rooms should not be subjected to cess. Such rooms are typically incorrectly categorised as complimentary/given as gift/part of a contractual package or taxable transactions paid in money’s worth and money and money’s worth.
- g) Double declaration of no-show and cancellation transactions under both “Taxable transactions paid in money” and “Taxable transactions paid in money’s worth and money and money’s worth”.

Q7. Why is cheque no longer a payment mode?

- a) The use of cheques has declined sharply over the past few years, as digital payment methods such as Electronic Funds Transfers (EFTs) and Paynow are more convenient and cheaper.

- b) Cheque transactions take much longer than digital payments and often take up to a week or more to clear. This may be further delayed due to current hybrid working arrangements.
- c) There is a risk of cheques being lost in transit, which could further delay the payment received date. Please note that payment of cess after the above deadline will render your hotel liable to a statutory penalty.

Q8. Are rooms that are let out to long-term guests (e.g. used to house migrant workers) exempted from paying cess?

All room transactions are subjected to cess regardless of the profile of the guests.

Cess is a form of tax which must be consistently applied on all taxable room transactions without exemption. Hotels are subject to cess in relation to the Formula 1 Singapore Grand Prix as they are expected to benefit from increased revenue due to higher room rates and/or higher occupancy rates brought about by the tourism event.

Annex A - Illustrations on the Computation of Cess Payable for Room and Room Packages

a) Guest bill breakdown into room and non-room components

(A) Room Charge	$ 450.00
(B) Breakfast (add-on)	$ 40.00
(C) Telephone/Internet	$ 10.00
Total (A+B+C)	$ 500.00
Service Charge 10%	$ 50.00
GST 9%	$ 49.50
Total Reflected on Guest's Bill	$ 588.50

As the guest's bill breaks down the room charge and other revenue components, the cess payable is only on the room charge of $450. If the cess rate is 20%, the cess payable is $90 ( $$450 \times 20\%$ ).

b) Guest bill without breakdown into room and non-room components<sup>4</sup>

Package Price	$ 500.00
Service charge (10%)	$ 50.00
GST 9%	$ 49.50
Total reflected on Guest's bill	$588.50

Since there is no breakdown of the package components and room rate cannot be determined, cess payable will be on the total package price of $500. If the cess rate is 20%, the cess payable is $100 ( $$500 \times 20\%$ ).

---

<sup>4</sup> The hotel may use other sources of supporting documents such as system printed revenue distribution or the hotel's internal established agreements, provided the cess figures can be properly derived and audited.

Annex B - Amount treated as Gross Receipts derived from a taxable transaction

Assume that the hotel collected total gross receipts of $80,908 from all taxable transactions paid wholly in money for a total of 358 rooms during the taxable period, this works out to an amount treated as gross receipt of $226 per room ($80,908/358)<sup>5</sup>.

The hotel provided a total of 11 rooms where the rooms were complimentary or part of a contractual package. The hotel had another 5 taxable transactions paid in money's worth or money and money's worth (including no-show and cancelled transactions where all of the money's worth or money and money's worth used to book the room was forfeited<sup>6</sup>. This also includes any rooms redeemed by guests under any member or loyalty programme where the hotel received monetary reimbursement for such room redemptions). For these 16 rooms, the total amount treated as gross receipts derived is $3,616 ($226*16).

Cess is payable on total gross receipts of $84,524, comprising:

- a. Gross receipts derived from the taxable transactions [$80,908], and
- b. Amount treated as the gross receipts derived from the taxable transactions [$3,616]

Assuming that the cess rate is 20%, the cess payable is $16,904.80 ($84,524*20%)

Annex C – Illustration of computation of late penalty charge

In the event that the cess payment is not made by 5 December 2025, a one-time penalty equivalent to 5% of the outstanding cess will be imposed.

If the cess is still unpaid by 4 February 2026, an additional penalty of 2% of the unpaid cess shall be payable for each complete month that the cess remains unpaid commencing from 6 December 2025. The total additional penalty shall not exceed 50% of the amount of cess outstanding.

Below is an illustration of the penalty computation assuming the cess payable is $10,000.
