

Maritime Singapore – Global Maritime Hub for Connectivity, Innovation, Talent

The Sea Transport sector connects Singapore to the world through our Global Hub Port and International Maritime Centre. Supported by an extensive range of maritime services and technology companies, the sector is a vital enabler for trade and economic activities in Singapore, and for sectors such as manufacturing, wholesale trade and logistics.

A. Ensure Relevance and Resilience of MaritimeSG as Key Node in Global Supply Chains

Future-proof our port's capacity and capabilities through enhancing physical and digital connectivity and building a future-ready sustainable port of choice

Strengthen the International Maritime Centre by growing a comprehensive range of maritime services to seize opportunities of the future, and partnering companies on key projects in growth areas such as sustainability and digitalisation

Support port automation and technology adoption, to increase productivity of port operations

B. Build A Vibrant Innovation Ecosystem and Actively Develop New Growth Areas

Grow Singapore into a leading MarineTech Hub by creating a vibrant innovation ecosystem for MarineTech start-ups and companies by bringing together demand drivers, solution providers, and funding

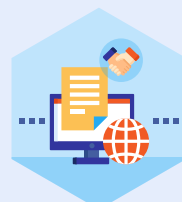

Deepen maritime R&D capabilities and strengthen R&D translation in key areas, such as Smart Port, Smart Shipping and Green Technologies

C. Support Maritime SMEs and Start-Ups to Grow into Global Champions

Build digital capabilities of maritime SMEs and start-ups

Build capabilities to venture overseas, work closely with key stakeholders to leverage their international networks

D. Develop a Future-Ready Maritime Workforce Equipped with Global Skillsets

Further strengthen local talent pipelines by attracting fresh graduates and facilitating mid-career conversions, including sea-to-shore career progressions

Redesign job roles & reskill workers to support a more digitalised, high-tech and sustainable maritime industry, and aim to create 1,000 good jobs for locals

Promote the maritime sector as an attractive and dynamic sector for jobseekers
