COMMISSION SINGAPORE

Social media, Mobile and Electronic Communications

Electronic communication is essential for coordinating training, competitions, and team activities. But it also creates opportunities for misuse, including inappropriate contact with Minors that can be hard to detect. These guidelines help keep all communications professional, transparent, and safe.

General Principles

All electronic communications should:

- Maintain healthy and appropriate boundaries
- Be professional, activity-related and transparent (e.g., schedules, team activities)
- Avoid any sexual imagery, sexually explict language or conversations

Communicating with Minors

- Private electronic communication between an adult and a Minor is strictly prohibited, unless under emergency circumstances
- At least two adults must be in the same group chat that comprises of only Minor Participants
- If a Minor messages an adult privately, another adult (e.g., parent) must be informed of the response (e.g., providing a screenshot)
