STRATEGIC DOMAINS

WHOLE OF NATION APPROACH

To achieve sustainable, inclusive, and resilient social progress and development, every sector, including government, private, NGOs, community groups, or individuals, need to be collectively responsible to ensure the basic needs of the people and the population are met; contribute to enhancing and ensuring a secure and good well-being; and to develop and empower a resilient society.

COMMUNITY

One of the fundamentals in catalysing sustainable, inclusive, and resilient social progress and development, is the existence of a strong, cohesive, and progressive community or society. The ecosystem of community or society capacity development needs to be strengthened to provide social mobility. A prosperous and cohesive community will create close cooperation and encourages harmonious and safe living.

FAMILY

Family plays an important role in developing a better individual that has values, love, respect, and steadfast religious beliefs, that contributes to the well-being and welfare of the society. Core values instilled in the family initiative will determine the integrity of a society in overcoming various changes and challenges to further strengthen the nation's security, safety, prosperity, and progress.

SELF

Self-development and self-management are the main components that need to be emphasised in strengthening and establishing the appreciation of values and identity as a Bruneian, and the sustainability of life through the Malay Islamic Monarchy philosophy. Self-development is shaped in a balanced and holistic manner. It encompasses the physical, emotional, spiritual, intellectual, and social aspects for both the worldly and spiritual.
