A decade of SGSecure: stronger together

During SGSecure's 10th Anniversary event, PM thanked community partners and emphasised that evolving threats, such as online self-radicalisation, require continued vigilance. SGSecure's next phase will expand outreach across neighbourhoods, schools and workplaces, with more volunteer advocates mobilised to keep Singaporeans alert and prepared.

New threats, One Home Team response

Speaking at this year's SPF and MHA Scholarships Award Ceremony, SM pointed out a new threat - AI, which is fuelling scams, extremism, misinformation and disinformation. He called on the Home Team to turn AI capabilities to our advantage, and to keep Singapore safe and secure with strong governance, responsible use of technology and continued investment in the right people.

United against radicalisation

At MHA's 21st Appreciation Lunch for ISD's community partners, 2M Tong highlighted the worrying trend of youth radicalisation and the increasingly diverse extremist narratives online. He stressed the need for a holistic and tailored rehabilitation approach to address these challenges. He also called on the public to spot early warning signs, help youths recognise harmful content and create supportive spaces that foster a sense of purpose and belonging.

Terrorism threat remains high, self-radicalisation a key driver

The Singapore Terrorism Threat Assessment Report 2026 highlighted self-radicalisation as a persistent, evolving threat fuelled by overseas conflicts and online platforms. Youth ISA cases have nearly quadrupled in the past five years, with more youths drawing on mixed extremist ideologies. Public vigilance and early reporting (ISD hotline: 1800-2626-473) remain our best defence against terrorism.
