Architectural Heritage Season 2024

1. The Architectural Heritage Season is a month-long programme organised by URA with support from community partners. Through a series of activities in November, it aims to facilitate greater knowledge sharing among professionals, promote higher public awareness for URA's conservation efforts, and drive greater public participation in shaping Singapore's built heritage landscape.
2. See table for the list of activities, accurate as of 8 November 2024. To find out more and register, visit <https://ahs-ura.eventbrite.sg>

28 November 2024 (Thursday)	Symposium Beyond Buildings: Sustainability in Built Heritage (held in-person and online)    The preservation and safeguarding of built heritage is a multifaceted endeavour that extends far beyond the confines of individual structures. Whilst the physical integrity and authenticity of a heritage building remains crucial, our approach to conservation must evolve to encompass broader considerations. In this, we will take a broader look at sustainability and its intersection with built heritage through various lenses such as our physical and cultural landscape, materials and standards, the natural environment and the resultant challenges that will need new ways of solutioning. To explore some of these vital aspects, we invite you to attend 'Beyond Buildings: Sustainability in Built Heritage', a symposium featuring industry leaders from France and Singapore. This event, held in conjunction with the France-Singapore Joint Year of Sustainability, offers both in-person and online participation options, providing a platform to delve into the future of heritage conservation and sustainability.	URA Centre, Function Hall
