

Member	Details
Associate Professor Muhammad Faishal Ibrahim Current Appointment(s): • Acting Minister-in-charge of Muslim Affairs • Senior Minister of State for Ministry of Home Affairs, Republic of Singapore	Education/Professional Background: A/Prof Muhammad Faishal received his bachelor's degree with Honours in Estate Management from the National University of Singapore in 1993. He went on to complete his master's degree in 1996, during which he was awarded the Real Estate Developers Association of Singapore (REDAS) Gold Medal. His academic pursuits continued when he received the NUS-Overseas Graduate Scholarship to pursue his PhD in Management Sciences at the University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology. Key Roles and Appointments: A/Prof Muhammad Faishal began his professional journey as a Valuer at the Inland Revenue Authority of Singapore, where he served from 1993 to 1996. He then embarked on an academic career at the National University of Singapore, progressing from Senior Tutor in 1996 to his current position as Associate Professor, which he attained in 2010. Political Career Highlights: Since entering politics as a Member of Parliament in 2006, A/Prof Muhammad Faishal has served across various ministries, demonstrating versatility in public service. His portfolio has included appointments in the Ministry of National Development, Ministry of Education, Ministry of Social and Family Development, Ministry of Health, and Ministry of Transport.