PRESS RELEASE

POST-SECONDARY EDUCATION INSTITUTIONS PLEDGE SUPPORT FOR HEALTH PROMOTING SCHOOLS FRAMEWORK

This milestone means that every school in Singapore, from pre-schools to post-secondary education institutions, now has the resources to be a Health Promoting School.

Singapore, 26 July 2012: To encourage every educational institution to set healthy practices, the 3rd Joint HPB-MOE CHERISH Award will include representation from pre-schools and Post-Secondary Education Institutions (PSEIs) for the first time.

2. CHERISH Junior, the health promoting framework for pre-schools, was officially launched by HPB in May 2012, while the Healthy Campus initiative was introduced to PSEIs last year.

3. The latter follows the introduction of HPB's Healthy Campus Handbook, which was developed based on recommendations by the World Health Organisation (WHO). Presenting five areas of intervention – Organisation Structure, Environment Support, Academic Development, Community Partnerships and Workplace Health – this initiative seeks to encourage and spur health promotion efforts within the campuses.

4. According to HPB's Student Health Survey, about 20 per cent of students between 13 and 18 years old were engaging in at least four unhealthy behaviours that would put them at risk of developing chronic diseases later in life.

5. These risk behaviours include unhealthy practices related to smoking, lack of physical activity, poor mental health as well as unbalanced diets such as under or over consumption of fruits and vegetables, sugar and fried food.

6. To encourage schools to create the right environment for developing healthy lifestyle habits among not just students but also staff, parents and the community, the Health Promotion Board (HPB) and Ministry of Education (MOE) introduced the Joint HPB-MOE CHERISH Award in 2008.

7. An acronym for CHampioning Efforts Resulting in Improved School Health, CHERISH is a holistic framework adapted from the World Health Organisation's (WHO) Health Promoting Schools Framework, which advocates a learning environment that provides students with an integrated health-conscious experience.

8. Whether for students, teachers, parents or the community, health promotion programmes may be conducted to address health issues such as physical activity, smoking control, nutrition and mental well-being.

9. This year, two schools received the Platinum CHERISH Award, 16 received the Gold Award, 167 received the Silver Award and 126 received the Bronze Award. At the same time, 94 pre-schools also received the inaugural CHERISH Junior Award.

10. Junior Colleges/Centralised Institutes, Secondary and Primary Schools are assessed by an HPB-MOE evaluation panel on the sustainability and impact of their health promotion efforts. The five main criteria are:

- School organisation, ethos and environment
- Curriculum, teaching and learning
- Partnerships and services
- Evaluation
- Challenges and future plans

11. Said Mr Ang Hak Seng, Chief Executive Officer, HPB: "About 20 per cent of school-going Singaporeans between 13 and 18 engage in at least four unhealthy lifestyle behaviours that will increase the risks of chronic diseases later in life. We want to change this trend, which is why HPB introduced the CHERISH Junior Award this year and the Healthy Campus Handbook last year – the CHERISH Junior programme brings health promotion upstream to pre-schools, nurturing lifelong healthy habits in very young children, while the Healthy Campus initiative moves health promotion downstream by reinforcing these habits among our youths."

12. Presenting the Awards at the event, Mr Heng Swee Keat, Minister for Education said: “A health promoting school is one that takes an integrated approach to promoting good health. This is done in several ways: teaching through formal and informal health curricula; providing a safe, healthy and friendly school setting; providing appropriate health services; and involving the family and the wider community in health promotion efforts. All these are key elements of the Joint HPB-MOE CHERISH Award.”

13. Leveraging the CHERISH programme, HPB aims to have every pre-school, primary school, secondary school and PSEI become a Health Promoting School.

JOINT HPB-MOE CHERISH AWARD 2012

CHERISH is the acronym for CHampioning Efforts Resulting in Improved School Hhealth. The criteria for the CHERISH Award has been adopted from the World Health Organisation's Health Promoting School (HPS) initiative. The World Health Organisation defines a Health Promoting School as one which strives to improve the health of school personnel, families, community members as well as students, and works with community leaders to help them understand how the community contributes to health and education. Please refer to the figure below.

Health Promoting School Initiative

This Award gives recognition to schools that constantly strive to improve themselves as healthy settings to foster good physical, social and emotional health for students, staff and the community.

Schools are not isolated entities but are an integral part of Singapore's society. They have much to contribute as well as benefit through collaborative interaction with families, the wider community and relevant health promoting organisations. At a strategic level, the HPB-MOE Joint CHERISH Award calls for schools to strengthen their collaborative culture.

The biennial CHERISH Award allows schools a duration of two years to plan and develop sustainable and comprehensive health promotion programmes for staff, students, parents and community.

Schools are evaluated based on five main criteria:

- School organisation, ethos and environment
- Curriculum, teaching and learning
- Partnerships and services
- Evaluation
- Challenges and future plans

Participating schools will receive different awards depending on the sustainability and impact of their health promotion programmes.

Requirements for Bronze Award

To be considered for the Bronze Award, schools should adhere to the award application guidelines and have a variety of programmes under the different aspects of health (physical, nutritional, social, and mental) that meet the needs of students, staff and community. The following detail the requirements:

- Evidence of a School Health Promotion Plan for 2010 – 2011
- Evidence of planning, implementation and evaluation of a school health promotion programme.

Requirements for Silver Award

To be considered for the Silver Award, schools must meet the following requirement:

- Evidence of a School Health Promotion Plan for 2010 – 2011
- Evidence of planning, implementation and evaluation of a school health promotion programme
- Evaluation of partnerships (e.g. parents, community organisations, service providers) in the area of health promotion.

Requirements for Gold Award

To be considered for the Gold Award, schools must meet the requirements for the Silver Award and the following:

- Evidence of integrated planning and evaluation of a comprehensive school health promotion programme;
- Achievement of Healthy Eating in Schools Programme (HESP); and
- Evaluation of the impact of partnerships (e.g. parents, community organisations, service providers) in the area of health promotion.

Requirements for Platinum Award

To be considered for the Platinum Award, schools must meet the requirements for the Gold Award and the following:

- Achievement of the Gold standard for at least two consecutive award cycles;
- Evidence of positive outcomes of the health promotion programme for students and staff demonstrated by providing trend data over the past 3 years;
- Explanation of how the health promotion efforts of the school may have influenced health of the broader school community (e.g. parents, community members, etc); and
- Evidence of sharing of best practices with other schools in the area of health promotion.
