Xavier ! I am so proud of you The journey towards PSLE is not an easy one ... in fact it is harder year after year (esp if you compare to mine 😊). But you have shown endurance, effort and most important of all, taken ownership of your destiny. 👍 We are just less than 5 weeks away (what is 5 weeks when you had worked hard of the past 5 years). So hang in there and we will walk with you all to the end ! 💪 And of cos , cannot end this without my famous motivational words 😊 :- Tough Times don't last , Tough People Does! So to all students taking PSLE this year, keep going as the finishing line 🏁 is just right there (in slight) .

I can't believe six years have passed so quickly. I still remember your first day of primary school and how you complained that your uniform was too stiff 😊 And today, you are collecting your PSLE results. No matter the result, I am most proud of your effort, determination, and how you kept going even when things were difficult. In studies, sports, and growing up, you have worked hard and shown great strength. I know the past nine months were stressful. I pushed you hard because I knew you could do better, but please remember — when you feel hurt, Daddy feels hurt too. 😞 Whatever happens today, we will celebrate together. PSLE is not just about results, but also about your courage, hard work, and the journey we went through together as a family. Most importantly, this is only the beginning. PSLE does not decide your future. There will be many more challenges ahead, but always remember: "No one is responsible for your success except yourself." With your determination and our family's support, I know you will do well. And one more thing before I end... You are smarter than me, and I love you, BB. ❤️

Xavier, I cannot believe that six years have passed so quickly. I still remember your very first day of primary school — all of us waking up early to take photos of you in your new school uniform (which you complained was too stiff 😊). And today, you are collecting your PSLE results. No matter what the result is, what makes me most proud is not the result itself. I am proud of the way you walked through these six years — the effort you put in, the challenges you faced, and how you kept trying even when things became difficult. Whether in studies, sports, or growing up as a person, you have shown determination and hard work. Honestly, at your age, you are already doing much better than I did. I know the past nine months have not been easy. There were many stressful and demanding days. I pushed you hard, nagged at you, and sometimes even scolded or punished you because I knew you could do better. Please believe me when I say this — no parent enjoys doing that. When you feel hurt, Daddy feels hurt too. 😞 Today is the day you receive your PSLE results. Yes, I set targets for you, but those targets were never meant to make you afraid. They were there to help you stay focused and do your best. Whatever the result may be today — whether we are smiling widely or feeling a little disappointed — we will still celebrate together. Because today is not only about results. It is about your effort, your hard work, your courage, and the trust we shared while walking this PSLE journey together as a family. Most importantly, this is only the beginning of your journey in life. PSLE does not determine your future success or failure. There will still be many challenges ahead — secondary school, O Levels, A Levels, and many more. But I believe you now understand something very important: "No one is responsible for your success except yourself." With your determination, your strong foundation, and our family supporting one another, I am confident that you will overcome every challenge ahead. And one more thing before I end... You are smarter than me and I love you, BB. ❤️

My dearest Xavier, Six years of primary school have passed in the blink of an eye. From the little boy who first stepped into primary school to the young man you are becoming today, watching you grow has been one of Mum's greatest joys. Today, as you receive your PSLE results, remember that your score is only a number. What matters most is the effort you have given, the challenges you have overcome, and the person you have become. Whatever the result, Mum is already so proud of you.  As you begin a new chapter, always believe in yourself, stay kind and humble, and never be afraid to chase your dreams. 加油，Xavier! 勇敢追梦，未来的路还很长，相信自己，你一定可以的！妈妈永远爱你，也会一直陪伴和支持你。  With all my love, Mum

My dear Appu, As you prepare for your PSLE, I want you to always remember one thing: I believe in you and I am proud of you.  The journey may sometimes feel difficult, and there may be moments when you feel tired or stressed. But never give up. Every time you study, practice, and learn from your mistakes, you are becoming stronger and moving closer to your goal. You do not need to be perfect. Just give your very best. Stay focused, manage your time well, and believe in your abilities. Do not compare yourself with others. Your journey is your own, and your hard work will bring you success. My dearest Hana Raiqa   As you take on your PSLE, remember that this is just another big game and you've been there before. You've stood on the pitch for big finals, faced tough opponents, played in uncomfortable situations and experienced the pressure that comes with important moments. Yet you've always found a way to stay calm, battle through the pressure and perform when the stakes are high.   So when you sit down for each PSLE paper, treat it like your opponent. Don't be intimidated by it. Study it carefully, understand its strengths and weaknesses, stay calm, and take it on one question at a time. Just like football, you don't win the game by worrying about the final score, you focus on the next actions. You've shown resilience, discipline and the ability to deal with pressure. This is no different. This is simply another FINAL game. So walk into that exam hall like you walk onto the pitch CALM, CONFIDENT and READY. You've got this, Hana!   Do it ONCE, do it WELL!

We know it has not been easy for you, and sometimes we may be too hard on you because we only want the best for you. But always remember that Ummie and Abah are here for you, no matter what difficulties you face or when things are beyond your ability or control. You will never have to face them alone. We can make our plans and set our goals, but ultimately, Allah knows what is best for His servants. So, I hope you will give your very best this year, stay focused, and work towards the goals that we have spoken about together as a family. Abah believes in you, and Abah believes that you and your adiks can overcome whatever challenges come your way, In Sha Allah. Most importantly, don't let the results define you. What matters to Ummie and Abah is that you try your very best, give your all, and never give up. I pray that Allah makes everything easy for you, gives you strength, calmness and confidence, and blesses you with success. Not only for your PSLE, but throughout your life and the years to come. We love you, we believe in you, and we will always be proud of you. All the best, my dear ALEESYAH.

My Dearest Child, I know that things are tough & challenging but I know also that you are doing your best to prepare for your PSLE. Always remember that I'm always proud of you. You are talented, kind hearted, smart and full of curiosity. Another chapter of your life will start to embark. That means new opportunities for learning & growth. You will meet new friends & acquaintances. Always remember that it is okay to make mistakes and we learn from those, and we move on to be more wiser & be the better version of ourselves. School and life have their own lessons to teach. And we learn from both. The difference between school & life? In school, you're taught a lesson and then given a test. In life, you're given a test that teaches you a lesson. I always pray to Heavenly Father to give you the wisdom that you need to choose wisely & to live your life purposely and meaningfully. I always pray for your happiness & the brightest future ahead of you. When I chose your name this is all what I want you to be "to be happy" Felicity (means happiness & bliss). Dear Declan, Mummy and Daddy want you to know how incredibly proud we are of you. We have watched you grow, learn and work hard throughout your Primary 6 journey, and now you are so close to reaching the finish line. The next few weeks may be tiring, but please don't give up. This is the time to push yourself a little harder, stay focused and give everything you have. Every effort you make now will count, and we truly believe that your hard work will pay off. When you feel tired or worried, take a deep breath and remind yourself how much you have already achieved. Trust yourself, stay calm and believe in what you have learnt. We don't need you to be perfect — we just want you to give your very best and have no regrets. No matter what happens, always remember that Mummy and Daddy will be proud of you. Your PSLE results will never change how much we love you or how special you are to us. So, keep going, my dear Declan. ❤️ Work hard, stay strong and believe in yourself. We are always behind you, cheering you on every step of the way. And before you know it, PSLE will be over! Let's look forward to our winter family trip together and enjoy some well-deserved family time, laughter, good food and wonderful memories. ❄️ ✈️ ❤️ For now, give it your all. Dear Declan and all the P6 students, The PSLE journey is coming to its final stretch, and we know it has not always been easy. There may have been days when you felt tired, stressed or wondered if all your hard work would be enough. But look how far you have all come! This is the time to stay strong, keep focused and give that little extra effort. Every revision, every question you practice and every mistake you learn from is bringing you one step closer. Your efforts will never be wasted, and one day you will look back and be proud that you never gave up. Remember, you are not alone in this journey. Encourage your friends, help one another and celebrate each other's progress. You have spent these years learning, growing and making wonderful memories together — now finish this journey together with courage and confidence. Don't let fear of the PSLE hold you back. Believe in yourselves, stay positive and give every paper your very best. You may surprise yourselves with what you are capable of achieving!

To Declan and all his classmates, we are cheering for every single one of you. ❤️ Work hard, stay determined, and most importantly, believe in yourselves. Give it your best, leave no regrets, and let your hard work shine! ✨ All the very best, everyone!

As your PSLE draws closer, I just want you to know how incredibly proud I am of you. I have seen how hard you have been working, how much effort you have put into your studies, and how you continue to push yourself even when things get difficult. Every late night, every revision, every practice paper, every mistake you corrected and every time you tried again – all of these efforts mean so much. I know there may be times when you feel tired, stressed, worried or afraid that you may not do well. But please remember that one examination does not define who you are or how capable you are. Your PSLE is important, but it is only one part of your journey. What matters most to me is that you give your very best, stay focused and believe in yourself. Don't be afraid of making mistakes. Mistakes are part of learning, and every mistake you make today helps you become stronger and better tomorrow. When you feel nervous, take a deep breath, stay calm and remind yourself: "I have prepared, I have worked hard, and I can do this." 💪 ❤️ No matter what results you eventually receive, you will always be my daughter, and I will always be proud of you. I don't need you to be perfect. I only hope that you can walk into your exams with confidence, do your best, and come out knowing that you gave it everything you could. This is your journey, and I will always be here cheering you on, supporting you and believing in you. Don't compare yourself with anyone else. Your journey is your own, and you are already doing so much better than you realise. Keep going, my girl. 🌟 You have come so far, and all your hard work will never be wasted. Elden Tay (6 Courage)

From: Lily

Dear Elden,

Dad and Mum are proud of your hard work and daily effort that you have put in. Believe in yourself, stay calm, focus and do your best for every paper. Whatever the result, this does not change how much we love you and you will always be our pride. Remember, God loves you too. Work hard for now, we will celebrate your hard work and move forward together.

★ Dear Caven,
YOU'VE GOT THIS!

 You've worked hard, stayed focused
and never gave up.
Now it's time to trust yourself
and do your best..

Stay calm,
stay positive,
believe in yourself.

 Take a deep breath,
you can do it!

Focus on what you know,
one step
at a time.

Mistakes are okay, just keep trying your best.

No matter
the result, Mummy will always be proud of you.

All the best for your PSLE, Caven!
★ You are amazing!

Caven Tay 6 Courage

Caven, believe in yourself and remember how hard you've worked. Take a deep breath, stay calm and give it your best. You can do it!

I want to tell you something important : Your AL score does not define you. A four-day exam cannot measure your kindness, your creativity, your beautiful mind, or what a wonderful daughter you are! You are not doing this to earn my love, because you already have all of it, unconditionally. Run your own race, do your absolute best so you have no regrets, and remember that whatever results come out, we will celebrate your hard work together.

6 Empathy

From: Agnes Chai

To all our Primary 6E students, as you prepare for your PSLE this year, remember that you've already come a long way! 💪 📚 Don't put too much pressure on yourself. Do your best, stay focused, believe in yourself, and take things one step at a time. It's normal to feel nervous, but don't let the stress stop you from believing in what you can achieve. Remember to rest well, stay positive and give yourself credit for all the hard work you've put in. No matter the results, your effort and determination are something to be proud of. ❤️ All the best for your PSLE! You've got this! ✨ 💪 "
