

WHAT ARE OUR STUDENT LEADERS SAYING?

THE HPONE
HTOO

Vice-Head Prefect 2024/2025

One area where I think I did very well in was solving problems among team members. This happened often during the Prefects' Student Agency Project. Sometimes, people had different ideas about how to do things. Instead of letting the bad feelings grow, I helped them talk it out. I asked everyone to clearly share their thoughts. Then, I guided them to find a middle ground that worked for everyone. I will definitely use this helpful way to solve problems in any team I work with in the future. I showed empathy by listening to other people's opinions and trying to use all of them.

I have learned a lot in many areas of being a leader. I grew a lot in managing my time and handling tricky duty schedules. At first, making the duty lists was quite confusing because it was so complex. But I kept trying and finally figured it out. This growth was very important because I had to manage both my leadership role and schoolwork. I learned how important it is to break down big tasks into smaller, easier steps. I learned to set clear deadlines for each step and to add extra time for unexpected problems. My leadership skills also grew when I led a small team for the Student Agency Project, where I learned how to guide people and allocate tasks. Also, my skills in leading discussions during prefect meetings got much better. I felt more sure of myself when guiding talks and making sure we got good results. In the future, I want to keep improving these skills. I was active in learning.

An area where I could have improved in is my confidence and presence when speaking in front of people. This was especially true when I was hosting the Teachers' Day celebrations and giving presentations during Motivational Mondays. I found it hard to remember my lines, which sometimes made me feel awkward and less natural on stage. For example, during the Teachers' Day event, I struggled to recall parts of the script especially during the singing of the song 'Flashlight' where I had to step out of my comfort zone as this was my first time singing in front of an audience, which made me feel less connected to them. Also, during Motivational Mondays, I wished I could have spoken with more confidence and ease, instead of worrying so much about remembering what to say. To make sure I do not make the same mistake in the future, I will focus on understanding the main idea instead of just trying to memorise everything.

